

MORSE PLACE SCHOOL IS FORMALLY OPENED

Jan 1921

Reeve S. R. Henderson, Veteran
Municipal Executive, Officiates

The fine new school building, planned and constructed on modern lines which the trustees of East Kildonan have erected at Morse Place, was formally opened last night by Reeve S. R. Henderson, who has given lengthened service to the community on the east side of the river on both boards. Hugh McNair, chairman of the school board presided and during the evening in addition to addresses by him, Reeve Henderson, Mrs. W. Phillips, trustee-elect, and Councillors S. Stacey, T. Brown, and E. P. Brooks, an enjoyable programme of music and dances was contributed by the children under the direction of Miss S. E. Macdonald.

The school, which is a six-room one, and has been erected at a cost of $45,874, will be known as Salisbury, No. 2. It has as its principal Verne Essery. There are at present in attendance 174 pupils. The building was erected by the Fort Garry Construction company from the plans of Edgar Brain, architect. As mentioned by Mr. McNair, including the cost of this school and another recently completed, the East Kildonan school board has expended $74,706 on accommodation for the school population of the district for whose education there is now a staff of 38 teachers.

Financial Standing

Reeve Henderson in declaring the school building open recalled that he was one of those who helped to create the first municipal school board in Manitoba. He had served the school board for 22 years and speaking of the affairs of the municipality he informed the ratepayers that they did not owe a penny on current account and were starting the new year with a clean slate.

A large attendance of parents of the children and other residents of the locality assisted in the opening ceremonies and inspected with pleasure the school building and enjoyed the entertainment the children provided.

Board Cites Economy as Reason For Move—Pupils Transferred

Giving as their reason that of economy, the school board of East Kildonan, at a recent meeting, decided to close No. 1 Salisbury school, in Morse Place. It has been decided to transfer pupils to No. 2 Salisbury school, with the exception of 27 from grade 7, and these are to go to Polson school.

This means that the grade 7 children will have an additional mile to travel, and parents living in Morse Place have expressed to the board their indignation at this change and have asked for the matter to be reconsidered.

The board have agreed to this request and a meeting for this purpose will be held shortly.

School Bell Rings Again, Breaking 20-Year Silence

After a silence of nearly 20 years, the bell will ring again at 9 a.m., Tuesday, at Salisbury school, number one, on Prince Rupert avenue in East Kildonan.

The completely-renovated school was officially opened Wednesday by Hon. W. C. Miller, minister of education, who congratulated the East Kildonan school-board.

Built in 1915, the school was crowded and it was found necessary to build Salisbury number two in 1920. During the depression, an enrollment drop and financial difficulties forced closing of the first school.

According to F. E. Beckett, school-board chairman, the recent rise in population in the district warranted re-opening.

"The cost of a new building this size would cost many times the price it did to modernize this one," he said.

Rebuilt at a cost of $23,000, the school will accommodate 145 students in 3 grade IX and 1 grade

VIII class-rooms. Two basement rooms will serve for physical training and recreation.

Equipped with the latest in class-room furniture, its ceilings are covered with sound-absorbing tiles, and walls are painted light yellow and greens. There is fluorescent lighting throughout, and all plumbing is new.

Dr. R. O. McFarlane, deputy minister of education, J. L. Bodie, mayor of East Kildonan, A. Maston, principal, and council and school board members, also attended the ceremony.

Catastrophic Damage Left In Quake Wake

GAUHAUTL, Assam, India, Aug. 31 (Reuters)—About 15,000 square miles of upper Assam—more than one-quarter of the state—have been damaged by recent earthquakes and floods, it was announced Thursday.

One and a half million people have been affected and more than 1,000 are believed to have been killed.

Officials estimated that nearly 100,000 cattle have been destroyed and $11,200,000 damage done to property.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was of Dutch ancestry.

SALISBURY

32,500 sq. ft Addition $635,000
Special Educational Section

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13, 1968

One of the most exciting innovations in modern education will be incorporated into the Salisbury School addition. It is called the open area concept.

The foregoing diagram is a sketch of this section which is 100x125 feet in dimension. This is all one room, without dividing walls.

This area, in effect, will encompass 11 classrooms, or as they are referred to — teaching stations. Within these four walls will be between 250 and 300 students — divided only by floor space.

Seating space for the pupils is designated in the diagram by the letter "S". Situated in the middle, and thereby servicing all teaching stations, will be a Material Resource Centre — library, films, projectors, audio visual equipment and space for future academic aids such as closed circuit TV, electronic language equipment, etc.

Possibility of sounds being carried from one teaching station to another are virtually eliminated by specially treated 16-inch beams in the ceiling, acoustic tile and wall-to-wall carpeting throughout the 12,500 square foot room.

The seating arrangements for the pupils are completely flexible. As an example in the diagram in the lower right and left hand corners provision is made for double classes of 60-70 students in each area.

Purpose of this arrangement is to enable teachers who wish to provide a difficult or time-consuming experiment, lecture or to show an educational film to do so before double classes.

It should also be noted that any one of the 11 teaching stations can be darkened out to show educational films without in any way affecting the adjacent teaching station.

The basic purpose of the open area concept is to provide maximum efficiency for what is termed "ungraded classes". Under this method students are allowed to progress intellectually at their maximum capacity.

How Salisbury school got its name

by Peter F. Klassen

Salisbury School has a very interesting and colourful history. The East Kildonan school board met on January 21, 1915 for the purpose of planning "proposed sites for schools and the advisability of proceeding at once with the erection of necessary school buildings". By this time, the number of children of school age in the municipality had reached 780 and there was a great need for new buildings. In the minutes of the school board meeting of March 10, 1915, it was stated that land had been acquired for three school sites; Lord Wolseley, Lord Kitchener and Salisbury.

Salisbury school was erected in the spring of 1915. The cornerstone was laid by Mrs. James McWee on the 24th of April of that year.

The name "Salisbury" was chosen to commemorate the training grounds of "Salisbury Plaine", England. This was the place where the 1st Canadian contingent of 30,000 troops was stationed during World War I to help Great Britain and her allies in their fight against

First year at Salisbury school

by Peter F. Klassen

Sixty years ago a brand spanking, new school, modern in design and construction according to the latest specifications of comfort and safety, opened its doors for the first time to students of the Morse Place area. Not a great deal is known about this first year. What little information we have comes from phot-static copies of four half-yearly returns. These half-yearly returns were filled by the teachers twice a year, on June 30 and December 31. Legislative grants were based on these returns and form exhorts the teacher as follows: "The Legislative grant for the half-year is not payable to any school until its half-yearly return is fully and accurately filled up from the school register, certified to by the secretary-treasurer and the teacher and sent to the Department of Education. Grants were issued retroactively (as they are now) and the school board had to borrow money either privately or from the banks to operate schools, pay salaries and maintain buildings. The basis of grants was made on pupil-days of attendance.

Our records show that attendance for that first term of school; September to December, 1915, was anywhere from 1.5 days to 76 days. It would seem that 76 days is the possible attendance. We further find out that only two pupils had attended for 76 days. They were Gladys and Doris McKnight, both 12 years old. Could they be twins? They were both in grade 4.

We also find that classes were rather large. Grade one, for instance has enrolled 42 children, ages 6 to 10, in all one room. They were taught by Mrs. JB Lothrop.

The other teachers were: Mrs. MP Duffin with 43 grade 2 students in one room. Grade 3 and 4 were combined in a room with 45 students: 23 grade 3's and 22 grade 4's. Their teacher was Miss Lillian Campbell. The senior class was taught by the principal, Mr. James Hilton Mori, who combined the grades 5, 6, 7 in one room with a total of 28 students.

Altogether there were 158 students in Salisbury that first term. Students who were in Grade one that first school term now all qualify for Old Age Pension. We salute all Salisbury students of 1915.

This is the second in a series of three articles written by PF Klassen, principal of Salisbury school, which is celebrating its diamond jubilee this spring.

Neil Campbell scholarship trust

by Peter F. Klassen

Neil Campbell, of the East Kildonan area, was occupied with farming, the dairy trade being his main concern. His father was born in Scotland and came here to work for the Hudson's Bay Co. in 1841. However, Mr. Campbell Sr. soon turned his attention to farming. He married Miss Ann Munroe of an old family of Selkirk settlers and purchased about 200 acres of undeveloped land. He broke sod and built a home and continued as a farmer until his death in 1855.

Neil Campbell also made agriculture his life work. He married a widow, Barbara Sutherland (nee Fraser). They had eight children. For many years he delivered milk to local and Winnipeg residents. Altogether he was occupied with milk and mixed farming for 30 years or more.

As a lad he was educated in St. John's school. He always was active in community affairs. During his time he served on the council and was a school trustee for many years.

After his death, his children established a trust fund in his name, the Neil Campbell Trust. The terms of the trust fund state that the fund should be invested in stocks and bonds and that the interest of this fund be divided into three equal scholarships: one for penmanship, one for mental arithmetic and one for Canadian history.

Each year since 1916, without interruption, three Salisbury pupils have received these awards. The first three were Amy Atkins, grade 5 - penmanship; Bernard Deering, grade 6 - mental arithmetic; David Furguson, grade 7 - Canadian history. The names of all the scholarship winners from 1916 to the present are on the Salisbury Honour Roll. One roll being filled up in 1955, a new one was started. It is interesting to note that the mental arithmetic column has been changed to calculation, and Canadian history to social studies in 1956. We salute all winners of the Neil Campbell Scholarship through the years.

This is the third in a series of three articles written by P.F. Klassen, principal of Salisbury school, which is celebrating its diamond jubilee this spring.

Nursery School visits farm

Lord Wolseley Nursery School paid a visit recently to Pleasant Rock Farm near Grunthall, Manitoba. While there the children had a first hand look at young animals such as pigs, calves, rabbits, ponies, chicks, and ducks.

Mr. Friesen, owner of the farm, took the children on a "hay ride" which turned out to be the highlight of the day.

The nursery class also school still has openings for 1980-81 term which gets underway September 8. These are morning sessions Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Children must be three years of age by December 31, 1980.

The program offered field trips, gym programs, arts and crafts, music, story telling and other things fun for children.

Time capsule discovered in school rubble

by Laura-Lee Saranchuk

The old Salisbury School #1 was reduced to rubble last week but it left a little chunk of history behind.

The school had been vacant for ten years since a second Salisbury school with better facilities had been built on the site, at 795 Prince Rupert.

"We had been using it as a storage area until the boiler went," said Mr. Francis Plessis, secretary-treasurer of the River East School Division.

A few days before the scheduled demolition, some residents in the area informed the principal that there might be a time capsule hidden somewhere in the building. Sure enough, the demolition crew uncovered a small, rusted sheet-metal box in one corner of the building.

According to Plessis, the bottom had rusted out but the contents were still in fairly good condition. Inside they found three daily newspapers dated April 24, 1915; The Telegram, The Tribune and the morning paper of the day which had deteriorated to the point of illegibility. There were also a dime and quarter dated 1902 and 1908, as well as a copy of the school act and a short note signed by Neil

"We haven't determined whether he was the chairman or the dean," said Plessis.

"There was no other information in the box about who put it together and why."

The board has not decided what will be done with the time capsule. It will be presented for discussion at the next board meeting.

New digs give special ed program space to work

By Wanda McConnell
Herald Editor

The students and staff in the Special Education Centre at Salisbury Morse Place

School aren't "shoe-horned" into their area any more.

Last week, their newly-renovated and redesigned area was officially opened. Parents, government, and school officials came out to toast the $250,000 project.

Shoehorned is the word special education teacher Dave Weller chose to describe how the centre used to be set up.

"It wasn't very great," he says of the memories of the makeshift, crowded conditions the students and staff had to cope with in the past.

Two years ago, the Public Schools Finance Board approved funding, in two phases, to make the space more functional.

Renovations were completed last fall and the 13 staff and 18 students - ages 12 to 16 and ranging from the mildly to the profoundly mentally and/or physically challenged - have been settling in ever since.

Weller, who's been with the program at SMP for 11 years, says the new digs "are the envy of anyone in the city."

The newly renovated facility includes a comprehensive therapy area, wheelchair washroom and changing area, vocational area, fully-equipped kitchen, leisure area, office and assessment room.

"Now we have a lot more space, and there's tremendous potential for the use of the space. We couldn't ask for anything better," en-thus Weller.

Maria Larocque is one of the 11 paraprofessionals who works with the students. She's been there 12 years.

"We survived in one little room. This is real plush," she says gazing around the leisure area.

"Everyone has their own areas now, and we're not on top of each other. The noise level is also way down," she says.

A "quiet room" is also a boon, says paraprofessional Bonnie Quesnel.

"It's made a total difference to what we can do academically," she says.

Most of the students in SMP's Special Education Centre move there from a similar program at Polson Elementary School.

The students graduate from SMP to the special ed program at Kildonan East Collegiate.

While at SMP, Weller says the students' program is generally divided into three areas: academics, integration into the regular classrooms in the school, and community-based activities where among other things, the students learn daily living skills.
